TIPRELL YOUTH KILLS AGED FATHER IN QUARREL TODAY

Bob Rush, 84, Slain by Son, 19, After Disagreement at Breakfast Table—Older Man Started to Strike Boy

BOY ARRESTED, TAKEN TO JAIL AT TAZEWELL

Bob Rush, age 84, was killed at Tiprell, Tenn., this morning by his 19-year old son, Ted Rush. The killing is said to have resulted from a quarrel which the two men had at the breakfast table. The alleged slayer was arrested shortly afterwards and placed in the Tazewell jail.

The older man is said to have raised his stick threateningly after which the boy drew a revolver and fired, killing his father instantly. After the shooting, the youth rushed from the house and up the railroad. Sheriff Jack Greer was immediately notified, as was also the police department here. Mose Lambert, deputy sheriff, arrested him soon after the occurrence and lodged him in the Tazewell jail.

The deceased is well known in the community, having lived there for several years. He is said to have been very feeble during the past few years.

NEW L. & N. YARD FOR LOUISVILLE

Start Construction Quarter Million Yards, Part Of Proposed $10,000,000 Terminal.

By Associated Press. LOUISVILLE, Feb. 26.—Granted permission by the Interstate Commerce Commission to issue forty-five million in new stock and distribute it as stock dividends, the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company Sunday began construction of a new yard on the outskirts of this city as the first installment of a ten million dollar terminal to be completed within the month at a cost of a quarter million and to provide trackage for a thousand cars.

NATIONAL REFORM SECRETARY SPEAKS

Three Churches Dismiss Evening Services to Hear Renwick Martin at M. E. Church, South

"Home, church and state should join in the teaching of morals to children today if we would have a better America tomorrow. We don't need men of higher intellect in charge of educational systems but we need men with better hearts; not Aaron Burrs, but Abraham Lincolns," declared Renwick H. Martin during the course of his powerful address at the M. E. Church South last night in the interest of teaching the Bible in the public schools of the United States.

Members of the First M. E. Church, the Christian and the Presbyterian churches attended the services, these three churches having been dismissed. The auditorium was entirely filled. Dr. Martin representing the National Reform association, told of a few things that the association is trying to do. Placing the Bible in the schools comes first on their program; and a fight against the divorce evil and the general increase of crime come next on the program.

"America is becoming known as the country where marriages are made on trial," he said, "and where you can obtain divorces while you wait." One divorce is granted for every eight marriages and there are, in all, twenty-five grounds for divorce in the United States. The association is making efforts to have a national uniform divorce law passed.

"The Bible has been thrown out of public schools in thirteen states, he said, the reading of it is made compulsory in seven states, while in the others the matter is left to the superintendents or other school officials.

"Every dollar spent for moral education is for national defense," he said. "A nation that rides in automobiles should not allow its children to walk in ignorance."

At the close of the meeting cards were passed around so that those who so desired could, by paying a small fee, become members of the National Reform Association.

GRANT-LEE PROGRAM AT L. M. U. THURSDAY NIGHT

HARROGATE, Tenn., Feb. 26.—The twenty-fifth annual public program of the Grant-Lee Literary Society was held at the university auditorium Friday night. All of the program numbers were splendidly given. The debate was won by the affirmative side, G. T. Forrester.

The program follows: Chorus, "Tucky Home," salutatory, Otis S. Cooper, Grant-Lee president; original poems, Escur A. Adams; essay, "Democracy Against War," C. A. Robinett; love song, octette; reading, "The Vagabonds," Wade Garrett; short story, "Gilt and Gridiron," James Varnell; semi-chorus, "Down in Mobile," oration, "Woodrow Wilson," J. Odus Sharp; prophecy, Sam O'Neil; Debate Resolved that the United States should cancel all financial obligations due from the governments of the Allies on account of the world war, affirmative, G. T. Forrester, negative, Alfred Holston; Grant-Lee challenge, N. Carroll Watts; comic quartette, "The County Fair," Mr. Inspector, basso, Vernon Wall, Hans Vandusen, tenor, Charles Snively, Miss Marie Sunshine, soprano, Ada Alexander, Biddy McCree.

DR. DOUGLASS CALLED TO LOCAL PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

A motion to call the Rev. Dr. Rutherford E. Douglass, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, of Macon, Ga., to take charge of the local Presbyterian church, was unanimously passed at a congregational meeting of the Presbyterian Church yesterday. The Rev. S. M. Logan presided at the meeting.

Dr. Douglass was here last week and preached at both services a week ago Sunday and conducted prayer meeting Wednesday evening. Members of the church were greatly pleased with him and are particularly hopeful that he will accept the call.

Witness of "Shooting of Dan McGrew" Tells Real Story Behind Alaska Poem

By ALEXANDER HERMAN

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—"Doc" Sugden's back in civilization. He has brought with him, after 25 years, the real story of "The Shooting of Dan McGrew."

Sugden, physician, and explorer, was among those who "ducked their heads when the lights went out and two guns blazed in the dark" in the Alaskan saloon where the murder occurred that Robert W. Service has immortalized in his poem. It was Sugden, who a few years later, told the story in Service's presence, which inspired the poem.

"Dan McGrew's real name was 'Wyoming Bill' and he wasn't a westerner, at all, but came of a refined family in Boston," says Sugden. "He was brought up to be a social light—and he couldn't be anything else."

"He fell madly in love with a married woman in Boston named Lou. They ran away, west. The husband, a musical genius, followed."

"Forced to support himself and his love, Bill turned to the only thing he knew—cards. Soon he became a common gambler. Lou stood by him."

Became Hardened

"It was hard on her—poor woman. Keenly cared for by New England parents, she wasn't fitted for the rough life in Wyoming where they had buried themselves in an effort to escape detection. But she became hardened."

"Bill gained the reputation of being a bad man. Lou was known as his woman."

"They soon moved on north."

"It was the beginning of the Klondike rush. Money changed hands easily. They settled in Juneau and Bill ran a gambling table in one of the bedrooms there."

"It wasn't in the Malamute saloon, that the shooting took place, but in a place called 'Nuggets.'"

"Bill was playing solo at his table. Lou was standing by him, luring the suckers on. I was sitting in a chair in the far corner of the room."

"Suddenly the door swung open and in came a stranger 'with a face most hair and the dreary stare of a dog whose day is gone.'"

"He ordered drinks for the house, taking dripped absinthe for himself. It was a bad sign."

"After drinking slowly, he spied the piano and went over. The 'Ragtime Kid' was taking a drink at the bar. But he almost dropped it when he heard the stranger's playing."

"It went through us all like an electric current. How that man could

Grant-Lee Society Banquet Held Saturday Night Was Big Success

The banquet given Saturday night at the Hotel Cumberland by the Grant-Lee Literary Society of Lincoln Memorial University, was one of the prettiest social affairs that has ever been held in the hotel. L. M. U. is a school where the industry and earnest endeavor of the students has been primarily stressed, but those who attended this banquet will always insist that their social accomplishments and ability to put over a supremely successful party rank equally with their soberer characteristics.

This banquet is an annual affair of the society which is now in its twenty-sixth year, but this is the first year that it has ever been held away from the University. About one hundred persons enjoyed the banquet, these consisting of members and alumni of the society, their girl friends, the faculty and a few other friends.

The grill room of the hotel, where the banquet was held was beautifully decorated. Yellow and white narcissi and chrysanthemums made by the girls of L. M. U., but so natural in appearance as to deceive any but the closest observer, adorned the tables. The walls of the room were banked in evergreens and bright foliage, interspersed with the yellow and white flowers. Hung on the wall was a large Grant-Lee banner, in the society's colors, orange and white, bearing the Grant-Lee motto, "He can who thinks he can." The menus were in play! First it was an aria from the opera "Sampson and Delilah." Then it was the "Maiden's Prayer."

A bunch of the boys were whooping it up in the Malamute saloon; The kid that handles the music box was hitting a jag-time tune; Back of the bar, in a solo game, sat Dangerous Dan McGrew; And watching his luck was his light of love, the lady that's known as Lou. From "The Shooting of Dan McGrew."

"Finally a crash of chords that made us all jump. Then he rose and faced us, and as Service writes: 'Boys,' says he, 'you don't know me, and none of you care a damn; 'But I want to state and my words are straight, and I'll bet my poke there's true."

"That one of you is a hound of hell....and that one is Dan McGrew."

"Bill who hadn't looked up from his game wheeled around. Out went the lights. Then came two pistol cracks—and a woman's scream."

"Then a woman's sobbing. The barkeep turned on the lights again. Both Shot Dead

"There on the floor lay Bill, shot through the heart, and the stranger, his square between the eyes. Kneeling at the stranger's side was Lou—kissing him."

"He was her husband."

"After that Lou went down to Dawson and married a prosperous miner. She lived happily. I know, I was her physician. But only a few years ago her end came, as it had begun—tragically."

"A river steamer she was on was wrecked and everybody lost."

"Her family still lives in Boston. But they don't know that their daughter was the Lou of Service's poem."

Dr. Sugden is 62 and has been on the go all his life. He has sailed the seven seas, lived in the interior of Alaska for 17 years, worked with the Canadian Mounted Police, fought with the Chinese Army against the Japanese, was surgeon of the port of Shanghai, led an expedition into Swaziland and explored in Brazil.

NEW AGRICULTURAL BILL IS REPORTED

House Expected To Pass Tomorrow Measure Establishing Farmers' Credit System.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—The Agricultural Credits' Bill which would establish two new banking systems for the aid of farmers was formally reported today by the House Banking Committee. It contemplates twelve intermediate credit banks as independent adjuncts of the Federal Farm Loan Board and a system of privately owned agricultural credit corporations and rediscount corporations. The bill follows the general lines of the Capper and Lens-Root-Anderson Bills passed by the Senate and the strong bill passed by the House. It is expected the House will pass it tomorrow.

FIRST SUNDAY SCHOOL BASKETBALL GAME IS TONIGHT

The first game of the season between the Sunday school basketball teams will be played when the Christians and the Baptists clash at the Booneway Inn at 7:30 tonight. Both teams have had some hard practice since their organization and an interesting game is expected.

The last number was an address by T. R. Hill, chief speaker of the evening, on "Grant and Lee." He paid a glowing tribute to each of these men and urged the society which combines

KU KLUX CROSS SET UP IN LOUISVILLE

Police Investigate Spectacle Last Night—Will Fight Spread Of Klan In Every Way.

By Associated Press.

LOUISVILLE, Feb. 26.—The Ku Klux Klan cross which sent a glow of fire over the neighborhood from the top of the hill in a park on the edge of Louisville last night reposed in police station today. Attracted by the spectacle, residents summoned police who found it was made of an iron pipe to which oil-saturated material had been bound with wire. Documents left at the scene indicated the initiation of a class took place at this spot. Today Chief of Police Braden issued a statement saying police would do all in their power to choke the spread of the Klan in this section. He added that several citizens fled in the dark like ordinary chicken thieves before the police arrived.

FIVE ACCIDENTS IN AUTOS YESTERDAY

Will Wynn, of Columbia Mines Seriously Injured—Several Others Hurt and Cars Damaged.

Five automobile accidents, one resulting in serious injury, occurred yesterday. Will Wynn was seriously injured by a car driven by Deputy Sheriff Miracle, of Claiborne county, near the Columbia mines yesterday. The wounded man is at the Bro-sheer-Brummett hospital and was unconscious this morning. Miracle was coasting down the hill near the mines when Wynn stepped in front of the car, according to witnesses.

W. A. Folk, of Pineville, was painfully injured about the head and face when his car collided with one driven by a man named Lane of Pineville about two miles from Middlesboro on the Pineville road. Folk's car, a Dort Six which he bought last Tuesday, was badly demolished. Lane's car was not reported as damaged. The injured man is at the hospital here.

The car of T. P. Williams was damaged when it collided with W. B. Birmingham's car on a sharp curve near Rose Hill. No one was injured. A party of negroes are reported to have driven a car owned by a taxicab driver into a fence near Binghamtown. Slight injuries were suffered by some of the occupants. The car was also damaged. Other minor accidents were reported.

The nice weather of yesterday is responsible for the accidents. The roads were literally packed by motorists who were out after a long period of bad weather.

SUBSIDIARY LONG DISTANCE PHONE LINE TO KNOXVILLE

To supplement the long distance telephone service between here and Knoxville, the American Telephone and Telegraph company of which the Cumberland Telephone company is a subsidiary, is running two wires between the two cities. It is probable that the line will extend into Virginia also.

The work was begun a few days ago at Knoxville and the crew is now working at a point eight miles this side of the city. Poles upon which the other wires are strung are being used for the new lines, thus enabling the men to make rapid progress.

LOUISVILLE NOT MIDDLESBORO TO SUPPLY NEAR POSTOFFICES

A change in the postal regulations requiring third and fourth class post-offices in this district to obtain postal supplies from Louisville instead of the Middlesboro postoffice has been made. The local postoffice will continue to get its supplies direct from Washington.

Heretofore the postoffice here has been supplying all the smaller offices in Bell, Harlan, Knox, Whitley and Laurel counties. In accordance with the new regulation, all third and fourth class postoffices in the state will in the future get their blanks and other supplies from Louisville.

FOR MEMBERSHIP IN INTERNATIONAL COURT OF JUSTICE

Resolution To Carry Out Administration Proposal To Take Part In Organization By League Nations Passes Senate.

MEASURE GOES OVER WITHOUT ANY DISCUSSION

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—A resolution to carry out the new administration proposal for American membership in an International Court of Justice organized by the League of Nations was introduced in the Senate today by Senator King, Democrat, of Utah. There was no discussion and it went over immediately. Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, acting as Democratic leader gave out a statement declaring that he had a friendly feeling for the administration plan but added that the indicated policy was a remedy for the half-heartedness by the administration in its foreign policy.

RESUME FAMOUS CLAYHOLE CASES

Choose Jury This Afternoon To Try Nine Republican Defendants For Conspiracy.

By Associated Press.

CATLETTSBURG, Feb. 26.—Resumption of legal phases of the celebrated Clayhole election battle began today in Boyd Circuit Court when conspiracy and murder charges against nine so called Republican defendants were called. Principals and witnesses from Jackson arrived last night.

After a brief session during the forenoon selection of jury went over until afternoon.

SERVE COMPLAINTS ON BIG PACKERS

Law Violation Accused In Acquisition Of Morris Interests By Armour & Co.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Secretary of Agriculture today served complaint on Armour and Morris, Chicago packers, charging them with violating the packing and stock yards act in connection with the tentative acquisition of the plants and business of Morris by Armour interests.

BLIND MUSICIAN'S CONCERT AT MANRING TUESDAY NIGHT

J. H. Brient of Dayton, Ohio, famous blind musician and a conservatory graduate, will give an attractive concert at the Manring Theatre tomorrow night in connection with the regular picture program, at the admission price of 25 and 50 cents. Mr. Brient's program will consist of classics as well as popular vocal and piano instrumental numbers. One of the special features on his program is a splendid impersonation of Harry Linder.

Mr. Brient arrived in the city Wednesday and at the Kiwanis luncheon Thursday at the Cumberland Hotel, where he is stopping, he contributed several numbers and was enthusiastically received. The Kiwanis members have promised Mr. Brient their support in securing for him a good attendance at his concert.

Charles M. Martin, of Cincinnati, the well known professional baritone, whose voice has been broadcasted over the country for some time, in a letter to Mr. Adkins, editor of the Puerfille Sun, says, "Mr. Brient is a wonderful musician and possesses one of the most interpretative spirits, I have ever met. He specializes in the better music and that you will find from personal contact that his personality is in keeping with his ability as a musician of unusual merit."

WOMEN SHUN SENTIMENT IN POLITICS

Slowly the fact is being impressed, as the women of the United States increase their activities in politics and in the affairs of government generally, that they are inclined to take a much more practical view of affairs than was expected by those opposed to the franchise privilege and the enactment of legislation making women eligible for jury duty. A casual survey of the record of women jurors, as that record has been supplied by the press, indicates that there is lacking that degree of sentiment, or sentimentality, which it was said, would virtually disqualify women for jury service. The inclination is to believe that women are capable of dealing with facts just as intelligently and just as impartially as their husbands, brothers, and fathers.
The luckless offender against the laws, no matter what the charge against him, has seldom obtained that degree of untimely mercy which he might have been unobserving and ignorant enough to expect.

And now comes cumulative proof that the women voters are not to be swayed by any mistaken sentiment when the time comes to record their decisions in matters political. They do not seem at all inclined to favor one of their own sex who becomes a candidate for public office over one of the opposite sex whom they, for reasons of their own, may deem better qualified. Convincing evidence along this line has been presented in all those states in which women have sought office within recent years.
Montana, Nevada, Oklahoma, and Minnesota women have refused to favor women candidates in preference to those whom their judgment prompted them to choose. Recent news dispatches from Illinois indicate a similar determination in that State.

The independence of thought and action manifested cannot be regarded otherwise than as encouraging, because it is indicative of a capacity to distinguish clearly and to form unprejudiced opinion, without which a self-governing people can have no hope of being properly governed. As the women, by instinct or training, learn to vote intelligently, there is infused into the body politic a powerful leavening quality which must, as partisan considerations are disregarded and as any false sentimentality is put aside, arm the constructive forces of government with invincible power and authority.

THE OPEN FORUM

Regarding Gun-Toting
Editor Daily News:
I note in your paper published
Friday a very interesting news item, printed under the heading "FEDERAL ACTION ONLY KNOWN CURB FOR GUN TOTING." The article starts out to say that one out of every twelve thousand persons in the United States will die at the hands of a murderer in 1923. The statement goes on and says that limitations and restrictions should be reduced to persons having legitimate use of such weapons, meaning the officer of the law. I have read Blackstones Commentaries and I fail to find its treatment on this subject. Consequently, I do not believe it just, right or moral for any man to carry the dangerous

short gun, better known as the pistol, Australia and Great Britain have but little, if any, pistol toting in their possessions. This is due to the cooperation of their subjects in the enforcement of their royal statutes.
They have officers who do not carry any gun or thing that would give color to a powder burning firearm.

The News continues to point out that in some states and municipalities times are imposed on hardware dealers and persons selling small firearms. This, to my judgment, is a sad error on the part of legislators.
No doubt their meaning was good, but short in method. As a solution I would offer the strict and right enforcement of the law to the letter, which can only be done through the co-operation of the people. No law should be left on our statute books un-enforced. To do this breeds disrespect which loosens the bonds of resistance toward good moral citizenship. As a further suggestion, I would suggest that if every newspaper would contribute a half, or even one fourth column to the subject of law-enforcement, denouncing and branding, if you please, such cowardly practice, it would aid in arousing the spirit of our citizens to their sense of duty toward maintaining respect, love and admiration for Old Glory, which our great chieftains have borne in triumph to the fraud cities of the Aztecs and placed upon the heights of her national palaces.

Your respondent further notes in your same paper, that the commissioners have announced the names of jury-men, both grand jury and petit to be impaneled at the next term of the Circuit Court, convening here March 12. Some of these gentlemen, your respondent knows. I know them to be honest, fair thinking and above reproach. Now the thing to do, in our judgment, as citizens of Middleboro and the great Commonwealth of Kentucky, to help these men enforce the law. If you know any facts give them to the grand jury, go to the Commonwealth's attorney and offer
your assistance in the case or cases.
This is the spirit that our forefathers had in their day. Why, I remember when the citizens of our country
country would not tolerate the Sabbath breaking by other citizens, and I am sure that most every other citizen, who has attained the age of thirty years, remembers this very vividly. Our forefathers did not say,
"oh, this is a pretty good fellow" and hunt a loop through which the vi-lator could escape. They said, with firm expression "So and so has violated the law and deserves punishment," regardless of sex, color, pleasure or aristocrat.

I do not carry a gun, and never did make it a practice, and I believe every man who does is unpatriotic, un-learned and a coward at the bottom.
The last time I was in Chicago, a man told me he would like to come to this country and invest his money. I was negotiating with him a deal to bring capital to this vicinity. This man said he was afraid to put his money out where people carried guns, set fire to coal tipples and other property,
and then defied the officers of the law
when sought for such outrageous offenses. The fact is: there is a great educational lesson to be taught in law-enforcement. The first of the study is to remove the desperado-like appearances and inducements. A well polished and well educated person can attend the Wild West shows walk away and think or say no more about it, but there are some people who are in another class, who will go and see a Wild West show, walk out on Cumberland Avenue, where you can see them change their gun from one pocket
to another and in a few minutes time you can hear their report, when they have time to get out of reach of our officers. I believe that we citizens of Middleboro should go to Mr.

Brown, who is a good citizen, a fine man and who is for anything that will help our city or its moral standard, and request Mr. Brown not to bill any Wild West plays in his theatre. I believe Mr. Brown would be glad to cooperate in the betterment and good for all.

Middleboro is located along the eastern limits of the United States,
midway between the north and south,
with the facilities of two railroads.
She is enfolded in the heart of the everlasting Cumberland mountains, beautifully and challengingly to outside capital and I believe that when people here start action, so as to promise a reform, that factories will soon be erected and the whizzing of the belt and the singing of the spindle will soon be heard, and smoke from the funnels will soon be curling upward.
I am subscribing my name to this letter and fear not the result of publication, as I believe that this fear has been largely responsible for present conditions. With best wishes, I am, sir,
Yours very truly,
H. LEE MONROE.

Adventures of The Twins

"Hello!" said Nick. "Who are you?"
"Can't you see?" asked a strange person thumping toward them on a peg-leg.
"Are you Peg-Leg?" asked Nancy.
"Certainly!" said the new person.
"Aren't you smart!"
"Why?" asked Nick.
"Just because. Besides I heard
you say you were going to put Jack Straw out."
"Well, we are," answered Nick.
"That's what we came to Mix-Up Land for. Jack Straw put King Even-Steven out and we are going to put him out."
"How?"
"We don't know yet," it was Nancy's turn to say, "but we're going to do it."
"How?" asked Peg-Leg again.
"Well, if you must know, said Nancy, "we've got magic shoes. We have passed the fieriest mountain all right, so I guess we can cross that river there! It isn't so very wide away, and Jack Straw's house is just beside it!"
"Hump!" exclaimed Peg-Leg.

"What's your basket?"
"Eggs. They're magical eggs that the Cut-Out Woman gave us."
"That's nothing! I'm smarter than any old Cut-Out Woman," said Peg-Leg. "Now watch what happens.
Which one of my legs is peg?"
"Left!" said Nick.
Peg-Leg put both hands behind him
and then he asked, "Now which?"
"Right!" said Nancy.
Sure enough, Peg-Leg's peg leg had jumped from left to right.
"Oh, oh, that's queer! What kind of magic do you use?" cried Nancy.
"Won't tell," said Peg-Leg, wagging his head. "Only you won't get across that river to Jack Straw's house, eggs or no eggs, shoes or no
shoes."
"What's that got to do with peg legs changing around?" asked Nick.
"I'll tell you what," said Peg-Leg
bravely. "Because I'm not Peg-Leg at all, but Jack Straw himself and I've still got my magic thing on my left thumb. If I turn it around I can do anything I wish to you. So look out."

Berton Braley's Daily Poem

ONCE ON A TIME
By Berton Braley
The men of benignity, greatness and
dignity,
Captains of commerce and trade;
Whose mighty ability, strength and virility
Make us a little afraid.
Who work so aggressively, talk so impressively—
Lose just a bit of their thrill
If we can just realize these we idealize
Once were exceedingly small!

They don't seem so awfully lofty and vast.
If we can just vision the days of the past.
When John D. Rockefeller
was learning his speller.
And Henry Ford played with his rattle:
When Elber H. Gary
Was chuckful of merry
And innocent infantile prattle:
When William J. Bryan
Would silently lie on
The cinderdown quilt of his crib:
When Gompers wore rompers,
And Schwab wore a bib!

When Lodge, the proud senator, veered
his progenitor,
Wasn't the slipper applied?

However, we group our men—con-
mon or supermen—
Each of them once was a kid.
They don't seem so dazzlingly great and sublime.
If we can just vision that, "Once on a time—"

When Harding was creeping,
Or Wilson was sleeping,
Wrapped up in an infantile dress:
When Morgan, the banker,
With babyish rancor
Would howl all the day, more or less,
When Deady and Hoover
Would stily maneuver
For jam or for cookies ad lib—
When Gompers wore rompers,
And Schwab wore a bib!

THE ONE-MAN WOMAN

By Ruth Agnes Abeling.

The coroner entered. An undertaker followed.
Gentle little Sing Loy was thrust ruthlessly out of the room. Strange men laid careless hands on his beloved dead.

While Kate lingered about, hoping to find some hint or motive, the two men made short work of their charge.
To them the fluffy-haired girl was simply a woman who died in a "Chink joint." The silken wrappings were hastily removed. And with their revelation the personality of the girl seemed to change. She lost something of her coquettishness. They left her virginity slim and white in fresh white undergarments, incongruous with the passion of color around her.

"Found this," the coroner was busily offering Kate a white envelope. "Relative of hers? Might want to read it."

He was gone leaving Kate stupidly fingering the envelope.

Her first thought was of Sing Loy.
Any message or any possessions which Alice might have left should belong first to him. She sent Latham whom she found restlessly pacing the passageway, for the oriental.

At length he returned. Sing Loy trotted after him. There was dejection, grief, in every line of his figure.

Kate held out the envelope. Sing Loy took it, opened it, glanced at the writing and then shook his head. He handed it back to Kate.

"You read it," he said. "I not read Molien way."

Kate opened the envelope. It had been through the mail and had been opened before the coroner put it in her hands. She slipped the letter out and glanced at the contents and signature.

She said to Sing Loy.
"It's nothing. Just a note about some bills. I'll take care of it."

Kate folded the note and put it in her purse.

At first Sing Loy was inclined to regard the action with suspicion. A peculiar light shone in his beady eyes, but died instantly. After all, what was a scrap of paper with a few words written on it? Alice was gone. That he knew and that alone mattered.

He picked up the gorgeous silken garment which had been cast aside by the American men when they entered the room. He stood for a second looking at the slim, silent body of the girl. Then he replaced its winding of colorful fabric.

At least she should be his Chinese bride in death.

As Sing Loy stood, his thin brown fingers clasping those unresponsive ones, Kate slipped out and left him
there alone.

At the front of the shop she came to a sudden halt.

THE MARKET, FLORENCE

Golden rain and roses, acacia pink and white.
Dainty mauve wistaria, picked together tight.
Purple flags of Florence, carnations claret-red;
Never painter's palette with such a glory spread!
Penny fat old women, a-plaiting busily
Piles of hats and bonnets from straw of Tuscany;
Swarthy townsmen crying their pans of chestnut-cake—
Market-day in Florence, what memories you wake!

TODAY'S RECIPES

HALIBUT AND OYSTERS

Place three slices of bacon or fat pork in a baking pan or dish. On it lay a slice of halibut, weighing about a pound. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and place, out of a pint, as many oysters as possible on the halibut. Sprinkle the oysters with salt and pepper and lay a second slice of halibut over them. Cover this with a cup of buttered crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven 20 to 30 minutes.

Heat the remaining oysters in a sauce pan until their edges or fillers curl slightly. Drain off the liquor, and use with enough milk to make a cup and a half of sauce. Season this with salt, pepper and one tablespoon of lemon juice and add the oysters. Pour around the halibut or pass separately.

Garnish the platter with parsley and lemon slices.

LUMBER SALESMAN DECLARES BUILDING BOOM SWEETS STATE

Indications that a building boom is sweeping the entire state are reflected in the increased business in the sale of roofing materials, according to R. P. Barnhill, representative of a Louisville firm who was in Middlesboro Saturday. Not only in Louisville but in nearly all the smaller cities the number of building is increasing.

Building permits for seven hundred houses to be erected this year have been issued in Louisville, he said. Recent increases in the price of lumber and other building materials indicate that the demands are heavy for them at present.

FAMOUS ANIMAL IMITATOR WILL APPEAR IN "EVE"

Johnnie Getz the famous animal imitator and humorist, whose "Monkey and Antics" have caused millions of the younger generation many hours of joy and laughter, is soon to appear here with the George Wintz musical production "Eve" which will be at the Manning Theatre, Thursday, March 1st.

"Johnnie" is the principal humorist with this organization, and it goes without saying, that his work lays along the line of "tears of joy" and little Johnnie produces these in plenty.
